

FUNDING OF THE PROTECTION AND RESCUE SYSTEM IN THE REPUBLIC OF SERBIA

Nemanja Bojičić

Summary: Elaborating on the subject, the author was striving to achieve a few goals. First of all, to provide a comprehensive analysis of funding of the protection and rescue system in Serbia, as part of the national security system which integrates different forms of protection and rescue system bodies for protection and rescue of people and goods from natural disasters and other emergencies including the measures for recovery from these events. Furthermore, the second goal was to point out to the possible directions to take in future reforms in this field with the special attention on the overall legal and institutional framework harmonisation with the numerous international requirements and standards. The question that imposes and to which the author tried to provide an answer is if the preconditions for the development of disaster resilient community in the Republic of Serbia are met with the endorsement of the protection and rescue concept. The paper includes a number of relevant scientific and professional information, which were inductively analyzed, systemized, generalized and linked into a unique whole with the aim to, at least to a certain extent, clarify the issues and possible solutions related to this ever more significant matter.
